'Broadway Brevities' Theme of Stunt Show

Comedy, laughter, and fun will return to UMD in the form of "Broadway Brevities," this year's stunt night theme. Curtain time is 8 p.m., April 30, in the auditorium.

All college clubs and independent student groups will have their first chance of the year to display their talents. A cup will be presented for the best stunt.

Dress rehearsal will be staged tomorrow at 8 p.m. in the auditorium. The Student Council committee planning the event is William Satterness, chairman, Stan Sevruck, David Jamieson, and Jack Powers. Tickets are $.50 and the proceeds go to the World Student Service Fund.

Stunt Night originated some years ago as a party in the gymnasium. Stunts were quickly planned and were not rehearsed. The first recorded Stunt Night was held in 1926.

In 1933 a student named William McEwen was general chairman. Mr. McEwen now teaches mathematics here. The first year that a trophy was awarded, the Rural Life club took first prize for their 1934 performance.

Mr. McEwen was master of ceremonies in 1935 when the Rangers were awarded the loving cup. A central theme was first used in 1936 when the Men's club got the biggest laughs for their burlesque scarf dance.

Theme of the 1937 event was "Circus Daze." The trophy went to the Kindergarten club in 1938 for their "Anchors Aweigh" stunt, and the Rural Life club did a "Modern Aladdin" stunt to correspond with the Arabian Nights theme and win the 1939 prize.

The best skit of 1940 was Washburn hall's "In Old Mexico." The 1941 theme was "It Happened One Night," and the Kindergarten club walked off with the prize again.

With "Showboat" as the theme in 1942, WAA won with a song and a dance. New enthusiasm marked the event in 1943 and the Buckhorns stole the show. "Duration Blues" colored Stunt Night in 1944 and the Men's club, whose ranks were depleted by the war, won top honors.

WAA put on a real "State Fair" sideshow to take the trophy in 1945. The Kindergarten club won the coveted trophy for the third time in 1946 when they did a skit based on the popular song "Swinging on a Star."

UMD Glee Clubs Set Spring Convocation

The men's and women's glee clubs will present a convocation at 10 a. m., May 5 in the UMD auditorium. Millard C. Walker directs the women's glee club, and Jackson K. Ehlert wields the baton for the men.

The women's glee club will sing "Red Rosy Bush," an Appalachian mountain song, "The Deaf Old Woman," arranged by Katherine Davis, other folksongs and contemporary and sacred works.

"The Desert Song," by Romberg, Fred Waring's "Dry Bones," and "With a Song in My Heart" are among the selections the men's glee club will sing.

A student public opinion poll to determine the most popular nominee or possible nominee for the presidency of the United States will be conducted Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday under the auspices of the UMD STATESMAN. The polling place will be located opposite the center doors in the main building.

The voting booth will be open all three days from 8 a. m. to 4 p. m. A student activities card will serve as identification.

Operating the booth will be members of the STATESMAN staff, Young DFL club, Students for Wallace club, and Young Republican club.

Men supported by the DFL club include Pres. Harry S. Truman, Sen. Alben W. Barkley, Associate Justice William O. Douglas, General Dwight D. Eisenhower, and Chief Justice Fred M. Vinson.

Henry A. Wallace is backed by the Students for Wallace club.

Magnell Schedules Band Concert

The UMD band, under the direction of Elmer P. Magnell will present its second concert of the season, Tuesday at 8 p. m. in the college auditorium. There will be no admission charge.

The concert, which will be open to the public, will feature a composition by Dr. Addison Alspach, and student soloists and conductor. Irving Peterson, cornetist, will play "Napoli" by Bellstedt, and Ronald Phelps will do a mirimba solo, "According to Hoyle" by Bennett. Patrick Sullivan will conduct Russ Howland's "Mood Mauve."

The Mobile X-ray unit will be in this vicinity again within a short time. The unit will be at the Pilgrim Congregational church, 2310 East 4th Street, Tuesday, between the hours of 1:30 and 8:30 p. m.

All new students are asked to report at that time. Also those students who did not have an X-ray from the unit in December, 1947 or February, 1948, are asked to report for the chest X-ray.

UMD Acquires Lester Hatchery; Plan Housing, Research Station

Plans for further expansion of UMD were informally approved at a city council meeting Tuesday. The council, acting under advisement of UMD and Chamber of Commerce officials, turned the Lester river federal fish hatchery property over to the college.

Because of the acute housing shortage, Dr. Raymond C. Gibson, provost, told the council that the main hatchery building would be reconverted into six dwelling units for faculty housing until the shortage subsides.

The long-range plan is to build a biological research station on the property to boost the interest in conservation at UMD. Dr. Gibson stated that the hatchery property presents excellent potentialities for biological research work.

Students Expect Drop in Council Absenteeism

Critics of student government have found another target: poor attendance at scheduled Student Council meetings—so poor, in fact, that regular business can not be conducted. In spite of the important matters confronting the council, only a handful of members attended the first two meetings of this quarter.

A deplorable situation exists when representatives of the student body consider their duties so lightly.

Student government is not a hobby to be enjoyed when there is nothing else to do. It requires sacrifice and effort. As the STATESMAN pointed out March 11, the college "common law" must be developed and enlarged. The present indifferent attitude of some council members is actually leading student government in the opposite direction.

Council members were elected to do a job. Fortunately some of them have contributed greatly to the expansion of student control. Unfortunately, others have neglected their responsibilities.

The students expect the "absenteeism" to stop.

Do Your Own Choosing

The presidential primary is a valuable institution because it gives the people a chance to take the nomination out of the proverbial smoke-filled room and place it in the light of public scrutiny.

If the recent primary victories of former governor Stassen prove anything at all, they indicate that the average voter would rather not have the professional insiders do his candidate-picking for him.

The STATESMAN is conducting a miniature poll at UMD to determine in what proportion the campus political clubs reflect student opinion. Don't let the interested few speak for you. Make your own choice Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday.

Draft Dodging, Female Behavior
Topics of Better Bogus Books

By Herbert Taylor

Among the books not published during the past month are a number of special interest to university students. Two of the better items are reviewed herewith.

"217 Ways to Escape the Draft" by Olive Drab, published by G.I. Shunn and Co.

Here is a book of interest to all students between the ages of 19 and 25. Miss Drab, the author, is a noted anti-militarist who asked Harry Truman at a recent press conference: "Will U.M.T. the colleges just to fill the ranks of the army?" When the President answered in the affirmative, she made up her mind to write a book telling young men how to avoid conscription: 1. Cut off your trigger finger; 2. Murder your grandmother and be sent up for life; 3. Get married and have sextuplets real quick-like; 4. Drop dead.

Miss Drab has a great deal of faith in all these methods, but she maintains that there is only one way you can be absolutely sure of escaping the draft—enlist!

"Actual Behavior of the Human Female" by Dr. Manfred J. Whimsey, published by Libido Brothers of Boston.

This is the famous Whimsey report you've heard so much about. The book is an analytical analysis of information gleaned by Dr. Whimsey during 15 years of conscientious research. Scores of personal interviews with women from all walks of life have given Whimsey a revolutionary insight into one of our major sociological problems.

Mankind, the doctor reasons, is the noblest form of creation. The anthropoid apes rank second. Few people realize, however, that woman runs a very close third. That is why the doctor has devoted his life to her

Russian Violinist To Play in Concert

By Herbert Taylor

This Friday the Duluth Armory's stage will be graced with the presence of a brilliant, fiery, young violinist who has established himself among the world's top virtuosos. Backed up by conductor Joseph Wagner and the Duluth Symphony Orchestra he will play Tchaikovsky's D Minor Violin Concerto. If the nation-wide critical acclamations he has received in the past are any criterion, his performance will indeed be something to hear.

The Friday night event marks Spivakovsky's first local appearance and is one unit in a tour which includes 13 orchestral appearances and an extensive list of concert recitals. It will be the Symphony Association's final presentation of the year.

After bringing Duluth a fine season of cultural entertainment in his "Winter Theater," Jay

He argues that woman is here to stay until man devises a cheaper and more convenient way of procreation. He says that the American woman is the most chaste (or was it chased?) in the world. In addition to being virtuous, she is strong-willed; if she doesn't want to misbehave, you can't make her.

Lurye, Duluth's leading impresario, is planning a warm-weather schedule of lighter musical diversions. Thursday, May 20, he will present Wayne King as the first of a projected series of programs featuring popular bands. "The Waltz King" and his orchestra will present a two-hour stage show featuring dancers, a trio, two vocal soloists, a quartette and a chorus. Selections will include numerous popular favorites—doubtless some of King's own compositions.

Looking into the future, Vaughn Monroe will be in Duluth June 18, and negotiations have commenced with Stan Kenton in regards to a local appearance. It appears that devotees of

★ TO THE EDITOR

There was recently published by several students, two sheets of anti-capitalist propaganda. The perpetrators of this literature make up the so-called liberal political element. They have taken it upon their shoulders to deride the economic system which has given us the highest standard of living in the world.

The American people aren't ready to toss these standards and their personal freedom out the window. When this faction passes over their adolescent stage of radicalism and opens their eyes far enough to realize this present government is constitutionally and economically secure, when these pseudo-intellects stop following blindly in the path of a presidential candidate completely lacking in diplomatic experience, perhaps this ill-composed propaganda will stop.

Wake up, youngsters, paper is scarce—why not form a hiking club?

Mary E. Granquist

For a girl who doesn't have a class until noon and who says she hates to get up in the morning, Mary Elizabeth Granquist certainly gets to school early enough. Nearly every day at 8 a.m. you'll find her working at her editor's desk in the ANNUAL CHRONICLE office.

This Kindergarten-Primary major is a member of the K-P club. She is also the secretary of Kappa Delta Pi, education fraternity, and president of the Women's club and of the journalism fraternity, Pi Delta Epsilon.

Mary will graduate in June with a bachelor of science degree and will teach next year in either kindergarten or a primary grade of one of the Duluth public schools.

Mary is the kind of girl who likes just about everything, but best of all she likes her police dog named Meg, little children, and chocolate cake.

New Dress for the Dollar

Replace Patriots With Pin-ups

By Stan Jurkanis

There is a lady in Philadelphia who thinks the American greenback should have its face lifted. She revealed this startling information to John Snyder, secretary of the treasury, insisting that the present portraits on our dough are boring the populace.

Anyone whose familiarity with shekels blossoms to contempt might switch to philanthropy and rid herself of the disgusting sight of all that verdure. Perhaps she figures it would be unwise to thus imbue the entire country with abhorrence of currency. Big Joe in Moscow would certainly get a sizeable chuckle watching the capitalistic pigs shying with averted face from their symbol of superiority.

However, this unhappy woman, who doesn't thrill to the touch of a ten spot, has a remedy. To be sure. She claims the pert profile of Betsy Ross or Martha Washington would perk up the listless lettuce no end. Possibly more so.

That would be a nice switch and all good citizens would revitalize their presently dormant interest in cole slaw a la U.S. Treasury.

One would think, though, that this would be only a passing fancy and in another couple hundred years money would again be looked upon with nausea like it is now.

So, we can elaborate on the listless lady's plan and provide a periodic remodeling of cash.

Instead of the patriotic old gals we'll select a current crop of pin-up lovelies and splatter them all over the dough. This will in effect, give the mintage some face value that even illiterates will understand . . . And, no doubt, appreciate.

To continue our depravity we'll put an evening gowned gal on the lowly dollar. Each succeeding bill of ascending denomination will find the gal less encumbered by stilted raiment.

Finally, on the big bill, whatever it is, her dishabille will be something to see. She will be clad in absolutely nothing—but a modest swimming suit!

If the lure of money for its own sweet sake is not enough, we'll throw in women. If they still don't exhibit an interest, send them to Siberia—they're un-American.

What's to be done with the old currency? Well, we know some people who never see Lincoln except in history books. It would be humane to let them see old Abe on a green background. We'll gladly be the distributing agent.

'Here Comes the Freedom Train!'

When the Freedom train makes its one-day stop in Duluth May 1, residents will have the opportunity of viewing original manuscripts of some of the greatest documents in United States history.

Some of the more distinguished papers in the 127 on exhibition will be the Northwest Ordinance, the Bill of Rights, the Declaration of Independence, Washington's farewell address, Lincoln's Gettysburg address, the original manuscript of the "The Star Spangled Banner," Columbus' letter describing his voyage to the Americas, Benjamin Franklin's epitaph, Washington's copy of the early printed draft of the U.S. Constitution, Paul Revere's commission as an official messenger, and a number of United Nations documents.

Several notable private collections are also represented.

The majority of these papers are in the custody of the Library of Congress, the National Archives, the state department, and the army, navy, and treasury departments. This period while the documents are being shown on the Freedom train is the first time that most of them have been taken from their permanent place of safe-keeping.

Bird Class Takes Field Trips

As the children's song says, "All the birds are here again, with their happy voices," a fact which the sixteen members of Dr. Olga Lakela's ornithology class have proven on their two recent field trips.

Taking advantage of the spring season when the birds are migrating to their summer habitat, the class hiked along Minnesota Point looking for different varieties of birds Tuesday, April 13.

Why the birds stayed there was more than the class could figure out, for there was still ice along the shore, and the wind from the lake was a powerful one. During the mighty cold two-hour stay, the group sighted about 20 birds of different types.

Last Thursday Dr. Lakela and her students drove several miles along the North Shore on another field trip. Between heavy showers they stopped at several points to look for more feathered friends. At the Horace Johnson Boy Scout camp they saw a sure sign of spring—a blue-jay.

Most of the birds seen on these trips are native to this area, but the glaucous gulls, observed on the Park Point excursion, have a long trip ahead of them. These birds were probably on their way to nest as far north as the Hudson Bay region.

DOWN THE SIDELINES WITH McNAMARA

GEORGE KALBARER has again proved himself to be a very versatile person. Along with his duties as an announcer for radio station KDAL, and his fine academic work here at UMD, George has found time to participate in and win the City class "B" Men's Handball title. Handball, by the way, is a very rough game and it takes an individual with a high degree of skill and stamina to play it successfully.

BEFORE THE WAR, when this scribbling scribe was attending the main campus of the University of Minnesota, he chummed around with an amateur magician who was forever making things disappear and reappear, such as cards, coins, and other objects. Lately I've noticed that this same person has been hitting the national headlines by applying his magic to a discus and a 16-pound shot and making them disappear, at least he is throwing them both out of sight of most of his competitors. The name of my old chum is Fortune Gordien and he seems to have clinched himself a berth on the United States Olympic track team.

MR. WELLS of the Physical Education department has informed me that some person broke into the equipment room and borrowed some golf clubs. Some people have the mistaken notion that this equipment can be taken at anytime one wishes to do so without returning it.

A RUMOR has it that another assistant coach will be added to Mr. Peterson's staff next year to bring the number of the staff up to four. Among those who possibly might be considered are Frank Puglisi and Frank Larson, of Duluth Junior College, and Mel Kron.

Flight listings and qualifying scores will be posted on the Athletic Department bulletin board, basement of Main, Wednesday, May 19.

Thursday, May 20, the final 18 holes will be played at Lester Park. The 36-hole total will determine the flight winners and runners-up, each of whom wins a prize.

UMD Athletes Move Outdoors; Trackmen Await Lewis Relays

SPORTS CALENDAR

April 28—STATESMAN Intercollegiate Tennis tournament begins.

May 1—Lewis Relays, Eveleth.

May 18-20—STATESMAN Intercollegiate Golf tournament.

May 29—WAA High school Playday, UMD.

Duluth's unpredictable April weather cleared up long enough to allow Coach Gerlach to bring his track team outdoors to do some practicing at the Duluth Public Schools stadium. Of the 20 candidates who turned out, three were lettermen.

The three lettermen who showed up were Laird Goodman, who set the Northern Teacher's college record in the mile run two years ago, Roy Griak, who holds the conference record in the half-mile run, and Bruce Warren who runs the mile. All three won important points in the conference track meet last year.

The most promising of the new candidates is Eugene Watts, a prep star from Pennsylvania who, according to reports, has run the century in 10.1 and the 220 in 21.9.

Bob Lundberg, the Duluth Central athlete who placed fourth in the state high school meet last year, is a candidate in the half-mile. The Lewis relays at Eveleth will give UMD its first taste of competition May 1.

Among the boys expected to turn out for spring football practice are Harvey Solon, John Kutschied, John Price, Earl Gustafson, Bud McDonald and Jack King who will be bidding for backfield berths. New candidates for line positions include Bill Dutmer, Rudy Monson, Ed Sonnenberg, Leon Kasmir, and "Red" Lundeen.

Returning men from last year's tennis team are Joe Aubin, Tom Parr and Don Ames while Joe Dubla is the only returning golfer.

Grobe, Bloomgren Co-Chairmen of WAA Playday

Mankato was the scene of the Minnesota WAA convention held last weekend with representatives from many state colleges in attendance. Ruth Anderson and Janet Sundby were UMD delegates at the conclave.

Donella Grobe and Eva Mae Bloomgren have been named co-chairmen of the high school Playday which will be held May 29 at UMD. Senior girls from all the high schools will be invited to participate in the event. Various sports events will be run off during the day, with many to be held outdoors.

All-Nations Tourney Drags On

Roy Griak's 'Gary Irish' Show Power

The UMD All-Nations tournament after experiencing a rash of delays and postponements finally staggered into the semi-final round where it still stands at the present.

An unfortunate incident caused physical education director Ward Wells to call a halt to the proceedings after the quarter-final round. After the situation was remedied the tournament got under way again with a decided loss of interest.

In the upper bracket of play Roy Griak's "Gary Irish" fought their way into the semi-finals with a pair of resounding wins over the "White Ukrainians" 74-54 and the "Shanty Irish" 61-31. Norm Schroeder and Jim Doherty paced the winners, the latter potting 35 points in a single game.

The "Gary Irish" were to have met the "Swishing Swedes" who defeated the "Albino Africans" 59-42. The winner of this game would have been the upper bracket finalists.

The "Mad Russians" trounced the "Samoans" 60-43 and the "Ethiopians" downed the "Invincible Irish" 28-25 in first round play. The "Royal Canadians" who had drawn a first round bye, licked the "Ethiopians" 47-46 as McDonald dropped in the winning bucket with seconds remaining. The "Royal Canadians" then eliminated the "Mad Russians" 49-43 to become the lower bracket finalists.

Idealist Coubertin's Plan Backfires; Olympics Cause Animosity Not Amity

By Roy Maki

When Coroebus won a foot race upon the plains adjacent to Mount Olympia in the year 776 B.C. he inaugurated the ancient Olympic games which were destined to continue until 394 A.D. when Emperor Theodosius I of Rome halted them by decree.

The ancient Olympic games assumed such significance that the Greeks began to reckon time by them. The games constituted a religious feast for all Greece and the poet Pindar celebrated the victors in odes. When the glory that was Greece faded, the Olympic games likewise faded into oblivion.

Baron Pierre de Coubertin, a Frenchman, revived the Olympic games after a lapse of 15 centuries and in 1896 seven nations sent athletes to Athens to participate in the games. This was the beginning of the modern Olympics. The meet was loosely organized and produced among other records the "sensational" time of 12 seconds for the 100 meter dash.

American athletes proceeded to dominate every Olympic meet for the next two and a half decades. Who can forget the memorable feats of Jim Thorpe, the big Indian athlete, who won both the pentathlon and the decathlon events with surprising ease in the 1912 games held at Stockholm only to forfeit his medals on charges of professionalism.

The invincible United States track team was due for a shock in the 1920 Olympic games held at Antwerp as a result of the surprise showing of the Swedish and Finnish athletes. Finland became the first nation outside of the United States ever to win first, second, and third place in a single event, doing so in the javelin throw. American athletes had to share the distinction of winning the most events with Finland, both nations winning nine championships.

Peerless Paavo Nurmi, the phantom Finn, rocketed to fame in the 1924 Olympics at Paris, amazing both fans and athletes alike by winning the 1,500 meter and 5,000 meter championships within two hours, setting Olympic records in each event. Nurmi made a clean sweep of honors by nonchalantly winning four events during the games.

Despite the serious intent with which the modern Olympics was ushered in, an account of the games reads like a page out of a Gilbert and Sullivan comic opera. Coubertin had hoped the Olympics would foster amity among nations and promote world brotherhood but the games produced many instances of hard feelings between otherwise friendly countries. A number of international incidents were averted by the closest of margins. One astute observer has declared that the Olympics, extinct for the past 12 years, should never have been revived.

The events of this past winter regarding the squabble over the hockey games may give credence to the argument that maybe the games should have been left in the grave. Time only will tell if the games will ever rise to the heights aspired to by Coubertin.
